A Personal Word About Austin Originations

We approach this subject by quoting from "Who's Who in the Glad World", in the Florists' Review of October 3rd, 1929, as written by Prof. Cecil Houdyshel of California, originator of Gladiolus Los Angeles, the "cut and come again" and others of equal merit, who says:

"Mr. and Mrs. Austin of Ravenna, Ohio, make up a firm of which Mr. Austin is the executive head and Mrs. Austin the hybridizer. Owing to the world-wide popularity of her originations, Mrs. Austin is naturally better known, but one has only to engage Mr. Austin in a few moments of conversation to determine that he has been an able and inspiring co-operator. They have been growing gladiolus over forty years. Mrs. Austin was one of the founders of the American Gladiolus Society and was supervisor of judges for several years."

In the above, Prof. Houdyshel has given us a kindly introduction to many who have recently become Gladiolus growers, and to those we wish to mention that the trend of the times is to grow more of the newer varieties. Every Glad grower wants "something new" in his garden each season, and the demand is constantly increasing.

Producing new worthy varieties has been a lifetime specialty with us, and the early, mid-season, late, exhibition, commercial, garden and landscape requirements have been considered in our offering.

Landscaping is a new use for Gladiolus that is coming into favor, and varieties especially suited for this purpose should be of medium height, long season bloomers and pliable spike that will bend with the wind but not blow over.

Novelties, too, have a place, and we offer such as have real beauty and practical use as well as being novel.

We are listing our newer ones in Large (L), Medium (M) and Small (S) meaning, mostly, sizes No. 1, No. 3, No. 5. Possibly larger or smaller sizes of some varieties may be substituted but all will be to the full value.

For other sizes, see Price List elsewhere in this catalog.

Early, a good companion to Gold Eagle. Named by vote of members of Ohio State Gladiolus Society.

THE BLIMP (No. 8):—Prim Grand. White with petal edging of pink, size 5 to 6 inches and over in diameter, 6 to 8 large blooms open at one time. In humid heat, the blooms sometimes flake and droop, and the slender spike occasionally waves under their weight, being fine under usual conditions. Attracts attention.

STREAK-O-SUNSHINE—A novelty, having foliage somewhat striped cream and spike of cream color, medium height. Medium size bloom of clear salmon-pink with blotch matching the spike. Blotch outlined with narrow line of deep pink. A florist demonstrated its use by arranging the creamy spikes of salmon blooms with dark green, making a lovely combination. Another noticing (on a cloudy day) its brightness in the field as compared with dark green of others remarked, "I thought there was a streak-o-sunshine in that row".

GOLD EAGLE (From Bulblets)

Extracts from a letter
From C. A. P., W. Va., dated Jan. 3, 1930:

"I trust you will not think me presumptuous in taking the liberty to write you in regard to one of your fine Glads, Rose Mulberry, but I can't resist the inclination as I want you to know just how I feel about this exceptionally fine beauty.

"Last season I had two bulbs of this variety sent me with an order gratis. Each bulb sent out three spikes, all of which bloomed, and they were far ahead of our expectations.

"In my opinion it is one of the finest, most beautiful in existence, and I have it listed in my 'ten best,' and am sure it will remain in that class for a long time to come. I believe the A. G. S. have it classified as a Rose Pink, but I should say that it belongs to the smokies, and certainly the best in that class. May I add that I have about 80 of what are generally considered the very best, from all of the high class originators.

"All of my friends who visited my garden this past fall pronounced it one of the very finest. The texture was wonderful and the coloring superb, and I found it to be a good producer. If you ever produce one better than Rose Mulberry, I certainly want to see it."

Read the opinion of others:

From Mr. E. M. Dusinberre, Geneva, New York, Nurseryman and Eulb Grower, originator of that worthy variety La Palome:

“We are very much pleased with Gold Eagle, it is such a deep yellow and one that is very early. It was the first one to bloom for us this seascn. Mrs. D. and I are more than plasead with your Tobersun. It grew very fine tall spikes for us and a rich yellow color that we have never seen in a Glad before.”

Mr. J. H. Heberling, Easton, Illinois, Commercial Glad Grower on a large scale, member of Board of Governors of American Gladiolus Society, says:

“Tobersun has the qualifying points of a great Glad. Strong grower with heavy dark foliage, tall plant and graceful spike, long flower head with 18 to 22 florets. Florets generally well placed and close to spike with 6 to 12 open at one time. Color clear rich yellow self. Frolic, producing bulblets quite liberally and which germinate fairly well, especially if peeled. It is outstanding as an exhibition Glad and has a great future as a commercial variety. Will take place of Golden Measure.”

Dr. B. R. Bales, Circleville, Ohio, who grows Glads in quantity, wrote us: “It’s the best ‘durned’ yellow to date.”

From Rev. S. T. Bartlett, Art Photography Department, United Church of Canada, Toronto:

“Just to let you see that your claim for Golden Eagle grown from bulblets is valid in ‘cold Canada’, I send this little photo of some that I grew in my garden.”

From L. W. Randolph, Alliance, Ohio, Commercial Grower of Gladiolus: “To me Paisley was the most wonderful Glad that bloomed this year, and wonderful does not near express my ideas on that variety.”

From Gardening Illustrated, in “Gladiolus, When and How They Flowered in 1929”, by Major George Church, Sr., President of the British Gladiolus Society: “Milady Imogene confirmed my previous opinion of her high merit on the 8th.”

Austin Trial Grounds

is easy to find, being located one-half mile north from East Main Street, and near the State Armory Building and Fair Grounds.

Ravenna is the beauty center of a fine industrial and agricultural community, the county seat of Portage County. Located only 18 miles east of Akron, 34 miles southeast of Cleveland, and 111 miles northwest of Pittsburgh.

Its transportation facilities by rail, interurban lines and by truck to the nearer large cities are unsurpassed. It is located on the main lines of the three great rail systems, the Baltimore and Ohio, Erie, and the Pennsylvania roads.

With its fine paved streets shaded by stately elms, Ravenna is not unlike a city built in a beautiful park. Come to see us here.

The seat of our Gladiolus enterprise is located within the city, at 356 North Freedom Street, near the Fair Grounds.

The latch string always hangs on the outside for you.
